Under Advice of Attorney-General New Law Considered Defective.

The time has come when it was necessary for the State officers to decide whether consider the law placing the Statehouse in the hands of a board, inoperative, or would oust the present custodian, Timothy Griffin, With the close of the fiscal year the apportionment for the care of the Capitol, which was made in the name of Timothy Griffin, custodian, was exhausted, and the money now available is simply appropriated for the care of the Statehouse. Under the advice of Attorney-general Ketcham it was decided that the new law is defective and Timothy Griffin will continue in charge of the Statehouse. There will be one impor-tant change, however. Heretofore all money for the expenses has been paid on warrants drawn in the name of Timothy Griffin, custodian, thus allowing him almost unlimited sway in the matter of expenses. In the future all payments will be made to the persons to whom the money is due on orders from the custodian by Auditor's warrants, the same as other payments are

MICHIGAN'S SECOND CHOICE.

Col. R. A. Sprague Says the Delegates Were for Harrison.

Col. R. A. Sprague, of this city, who was in a position to know something of the inside history of the Minneapolis convention. corroborates General Alger's denial of some of Senator Sherman's statements. Colonel Sprague, though not a delegate, went to the convention to work for the nomination of General Harrison. Having served in a Michigan regiment, and being acquainted with many of the delegates from that tate, he was assigned to work in that line, He says it was the distinct undertsanding among the Michigan delegates that whenever General Alger's name should be withdrawn Michigan would go for Harrison. He also says there is no foundation whatever for the statement that Southern delegates were bought for Alger.

The military band, stationed in the west gallery, near the platform, played for the grand march and promenade, and the orchestra, stationed on the first floor, played for the dances. It was fully 9 o'clock when the grand march began, and three hundred participated. The march was led by Mr. Charles Krauss and Mrs. Louis Hollweg, Mr. and Mrs. August M. Kuhn, Mr. Hollweg and Mrs. Henry Severin and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goepper. They led the way around the hall in various paths and ended in rows of sixteen across the hall, the first eight couples standing just at the foot of the steps to the plat-form. Then the orchestra began a waltz. The programme of the promenade music

On the stage were small tables at which refreshments were served at midnight, and in the southwest corner was an alcove arranged with palms and flowers where the reception committee and many of their friends had refreshments. The appointments throughout were perfect. The halls were shielded with storm doors of canvas and the corridors were covered with white as protection to the ladies' dresses. Many tickets were sold which were not used, and the sum realized by the ladies for their charity will be larger than ever before. This was the fourth annual ball, and these events are noted as being the most promi-nent social affairs of the season. The society is the first which has been able to make a financial success of the charity ball.

A Homeless Boy.

A boy was under the care of Police Matron Buchanan at the police station last night. He was found on the streets with no place to go for the night, and was brought in by one of the patrolmen. The only thing that could be learned from him was that he had lived at Cumberland, Ind., with George Steele. He gave the name of Daniel Spades. The boy looked to be about ten years old.

lot of diamond ring and a gold watch. Mr. Gauld | though with some difficulty. thinks his loss amounts to about $100. Before leaving the robbers removed the interior mechanism of the combination lock. They must have been very deliberate in their movements, as it would take some time to detach the portions of the lock which are missing. A chewing gum slot machine was pried open and the contents taken. The slot machine was left standing on the front counter the night before and from the marks left behind the thieves evidently worked on it behind the counter. The machine was replaced on the front counter, which stands in plain view of the street. A screw driver and hatchet were found beside the safe, together with a pocketknife, which had evidently been stolen from another store, as the price mark was still attached. The screw driver was probably used in removing the lock. It is hard to imagine a motive for the theft of the lock, as it cannot be disposed of and would be of no use to the thieves. Mr. Gauld thinks the thieves concealed themselves in the cellar some time during the evening and waited until all was quiet and then proceeded. Mr. Gauld's brother George was on watch Wednesday night and said yesterday he noticed nothing unusual. Yesterday morning he had occasion to go the safe was never locked, as no money was kept in the store excepting smail currency used in making change. A hasty examination convinced him the store had been robbed and he immediately tried to ascertain how the thieves had entered. The store stands on the point of Indiana avenue and West street and has three entrances, one on West street and two on the avenue. There is a small sideroom facing the avenue which is used as a laboratory, and when Mr. Gauld attempted to enter it from the store he found the door locked on the inside. He went around to the side door and found it un-locked. It was clear the thieves made their exit through the !aboratory. Mr. Gauld says the West-street door was always left open during the evening and it would be possible for several persons to slip in un-noticed and make their way to the cellar, as he generally stays in the front part of the store at night. Wednesday night he went into the cellar the last thing before leaving to lock a door that leads from the cellar to the street. He noticed nothing unusual, but the cellar is large and a dozen persons might conceal themselves behind the boxes with which it is filed.

Mr. Gauld is inclined to believe the store was robbed by persons acquainted with the premises. A light is kept burning and it is strange the thieves were not observed. Mr. M. J. Burke owns a butcher shop on West street, two doors south of the avenue, just a snort distance from Gauld's pink silk under white organdie and lace, with pink ribbons; Mrs. Gustav Recker, white organdie over pink; Mrs. Annie Hays, black silk and jet, with corals and white lace; Miss Ruth Nicholas, pale pink the back door, which was unlocked from silk and white organdic butterfly alexand. the inside. Next to the butcher shop is a Miss Annie Reaume, black lace over orange saloon kept by A. E. Metzler. The saloon silk; Mrs. C. I. Fletcher, gray and pink changeable silk, with pink velvet; Miss yard and Wednesday night Mr. Metzler saw Becker, maize silk, with scarlet flowers; some one jump over the fence and run Mrs. F. X. Arens, white organdle over down the street about 11 o'clock. It is light green silk; Mrs. H. O. Pantzer, gray thought this was one of the men who committed the robberies.

A square further down attempts were made to enter the store of Mendell brothers, grocers. The family resides over the store and about 3:30 o'clock one of the ladies of the family was awakened by some one at the back door. A large dog is kept in the back yard and it is thought his bark-returning from supper and immediately notified the police, giving a good description of the men. The detectives are looking for them. THE FUR BEGAN TO FLY.

But Tabby, Who Caused the Disturbance, Was Not in It.

It was the house cat that caused the trouble in the Schultz family. Tobias Schultz and his stepson, Ed Seibert, were in Police Court yesterday morning to answer to the charge of assault and battery on each other. They live at No. 66 Morton street, where the police were called a few nights ago to quell a disturbance. The évidence in the case showed that the house cat was responsible for it all. Schultz would bring Tabby to the table, and his wife objected. The other night Schultz fed the cat on the floor while the family was at supper, and Mrs. Schultz deliberately kicked the feline across the floor. This enraged Schultz and he swore at his wife. His stepson, Ed Seibert, announced that he proposed to pro-tect his mother, and Schultz struck at him across the table. Then the fur began to fly, but the cat wasn't in it. The men were ar-rested and locked up. Judge Cox fined rested and locked up. Judge Cox fined Schultz $1 and sent him to the workhouse.

Charles Costamagna Sues a Broad ton's Hat Store. Ripple Justice of the Peace. Charles Costamagna has brought suit against Milton R. Likins, justice of the peace at Broad Ripple, Thomas Hessong, James M. Watts and Robert C. Light, his bondsmen, and Constable Charles H. Pearce for damages, alleged to have been suffered by imprisonment in the Marion county jail. The plaintiff was arrested for profanity at Broad Ripple on Sunday, March 24, of the present year. He was taken before Justice Likins, convicted and fined $3 and costs. In default of payment he was brought to this city and confined for two days in the county jail. The plaintiff shows the court that on March 26 he was released on a writ of habeas corpus granted by Judge Harvey, of the Superior Court, the action being taken under the statute of 1881, which repealed all acts making Sunday a judicial day. The plaintiff avers that the action against him in the justice court was unwarranted and illegal and says he is entitled to $10,000 damages.

Stewarts and Toomey. Police Judge Cox disposed of the Stewart-Toomey case yesterday morning. Jack Stewart was fined $25 for assault and battery on his wife and Mrs. Stewart and Michael Toomey were fined for adultery. All of the parties were given workhouse sentences, but they appealed the case to the Criminal Court.

Railroad Company Compromised. The sult of Cornellus Callahan, adminisagainst the Big Four railway, was yesterday settled by agreement in Room 1. Superior Court. Dec. 28, 1894, Michael Sullivan met an accident at the Big Four depot in Lafayette, which caused his death on the following day. He had purchased a ticket for Cincinnati and was in the act of having his baggage checked when he caught his foot in a switch frog and before he could extricate himself was run down by an engine. The administrator of Sullivan's estate brought suit for $10,000, alleging negligence on the part of the company. By the terms of the settlement made yesterday, the family of Sullivan will get $2,250, the railroad company paying the costs in the case.

Always an Opportune Time "To buy or not to buy now;" that is the question, and an important one with those who do Santa honor by conferring upon their friends some sort of memento in memory of the holidays. Among the vari-ous lines of goods there are many very special articles in haberdashery, such as silk chiffon and fine linen handkerchiefs, smoking jackets, collar and cuff sets. Russian tippets, or dress shields, silk umbrel las, dress suit cases, novelties in jewelry, newest things in neckwear, hosiery and myriads of other acceptable gifts which combine novelty with utility. The big line of these goods at Paul H. Krauss's haberdashery, 44 and 46 East Washington street, are inducing early purchases—a wise thing, as both a pick of goods and saving of being jostled at the last moment are afforded.

Insure your home in the Glens Falls. Hardwood Mantels, Grates. Jno. M. Lilly. BUYING LIFE INSURANCE.

The Equitable Life Insurance Society Would Appear to Believe It Pays to Submit Facts and Figures Through the Medium of Newspaper Advertising for the Decision of the Public. The recent liberal use of newspaper advertising space by this leader of the great life insurance companies of the world is worthy of note. Putting forth the advantages their company have to offer the public in the way of safe insurance as a profitable investment, they thus appeal to the business accumen of men of affairs to decide the question of where can best be bought insurance which insures at least cost, or which shall be the best investment at the end of a term of years. The advertising thus done effectively supply ments the work of the experienced insurance solicitor. A careful study of the sixteen comparisons with ten other large companies shown in the advertisement of the Equitable appeals to the best judgment of the man in need of insurance, and proves it one of, if not the safest and strongest, companies in the world. The Equitable Society has just passed through a thorough and exhaustive examination by the superintendent of the insurance department of New York, whose report is full of the highest praise for the financial cone of the Equitable.
